The standard in Apple Enterprise Management now has nearly 2300 employees around the globe, and 96% of its employees say they feel welcomed

MINNEAPOLIS, April 11, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Today, Great Place to Work® and Fortune® magazine announced that Jamf (NASDAQ: JAMF) has been named as one of this year's 100 Best Companies to Work For. This prestigious award is based entirely on the responses of current employees and what their experiences have been. This is Jamf's first time being named to this list, coming in at 62nd place.

The 2022 Fortune 100 Best Companies to Work For® award is based on an analysis of survey responses from more than 4.5 million current U.S. employees. In that survey, 90% of Jamf's employees said Jamf is a great place to work. This number is 33% higher than the average U.S. company and makes Jamf one of only three Minnesota-based companies on the list.

"Best Companies' leadership has never been more necessary," says Michael C. Bush, CEO of Great Place to Work®. "As workers struggle with the Great Resignation, burnout and COVID-19 disruptions, these exceptional companies offer workplace experiences as strong as prior to the pandemic. These companies get that 'place' is wherever their employees are sitting or standing, and they are committed to make that place equitable, safe and productive. Their commitment to genuinely care for their people through trust, inclusion, purpose and meaningful flexibility for life circumstances goes beyond surface-level perks and is a model for the market to follow."

Jamf's inclusion on the list by employees is further exemplified by its benefits, such as a commitment to encouraging employees to work where they are the happiest and most productive. Jamf's choice-based office model provides the option to employees who want the camaraderie of the office or the flexibility to work from any location where they work best. Jamf's offices include perks such as dedicated wellness and nursing rooms, workout facilities and top-of-the-line technology to collaborate with colleagues from around the world seamlessly. Jamf employees also receive a $1,000 stipend to furnish their working space to feel more comfortable.

Jamf has several employee resource groups, whose purpose is to help create an environment that embraces and celebrates unique perspectives and ideas. These Employee Resource Groups (ERGs) include Families@Jamf, Women@Jamf, Shades of Jamf, Proud@Jamf and Accessibility@Jamf. All groups offer a space for employees to participate in transparent discussions and access key resources to thrive at Jamf.

Jamf also gives an opportunity for team members to get involved in their communities. Founded in 2013, the Jamf Nation Global Foundation (JNGF) was created to enrich the communities where Jamfs live and work. The foundation focuses its contributions on organizations and causes that align with Jamf's core values: selflessness and relentless self-improvement, and Jamf gives paid time off to volunteer and offers monetary matching for employee donations. As a result, 94% of employees state they feel good about the ways Jamf gives back to the community.

Among other key reasons that Jamf was selected in the ranking, its employees cited:

- 94% of employees say Jamf facilities contribute to a good working environment
- 94% feel they are able to take time off when they think it's necessary
- 96% say they feel welcomed
- 95% feel that people truly care about one another

"We have two company values at Jamf - selflessness, and relentless self-improvement. I am amazed at how I see these values in practice daily by my fellow Jamfs," says Dean Hager, Jamf CEO. "It is the dedication and hard work of our employees that has cultivated a culture that allows us all to be our authentic selves and bring our whole self to work. Thank you to our entire team across the globe for powering this truly special atmosphere, and to Great Place to Work and Fortune Magazine for this recognition."
